UCHS

AWARDS

TEA

FEBRUARY 12

With a new year comes the opportunity to publically thank and celebrate those stewards of historic properties in University City who have, in the last year, “done the right thing” by way of improvements to both the public exteriors of their buildings and the green settings that surround them. Those responsible for these “Gifts to the Streets” who have received letters of commendation from the society will be our special guests at this year’s Valentine’s Award Tea on Sunday, February 12. Their names and efforts are itemized in this newsletter and we encourage you to join them, the membership of the society and UCHS Board to enjoy the informal festivities at a full scale tea with treats prepared and served by UCHS members at “The Castle,” the home and B&B of Nick & Ellie Cernansky at 48th and Springfield Avenue, from 4 to 6 p.m.

At 5 p.m., we will also be announcing and presenting the annual Outstanding Preservation and Preservation Initiative Awards to the most impressive and deserving of all these efforts.

And a special treat on view this year is the discovery and restoration of some impressive hidden details in the main dining room of the white marble mansion, built as the “Hanson Haines House” in 1903 by architect Charles Balderston. The results will add another reason to attend this annual celebration on Springfield Avenue.

While a separate invite and reminder will be sent you and the others invited to this UCHS celebration, if you know you can make it, RSVP us at (215) 387-3019, or email at info@uchs.net to reserve a place for you and your guests.

And if you see others who we might have overlooked in our “Gifts to the Streets” recognitions, please let us know as well so that we can get them a heartfelt commendation and thanks, an invitation and temporary membership in UCHS.

LUTHERANS
PAINTING

The Calvary Center for Culture & Community got a combined Thanksgiving/Christmas gift from a group of young volunteers from the Mid-Atlantic Lutheran Student Movement who painted the Center’s standing display board on 48th Street in the red, black and gold color scheme used on the new outdoor signage and then went on to apply the same colors to its main entrance at the corner of 48th and Baltimore.

This group performed a similar community service project last year helping to restore some adjoining historic porches on S. 45th Street and asked the University City Historical Society to locate another such local worksite. Calvary was one of two West Philadelphia locations served by the group in 2005. Pictured at work renewing the Calvary doors are Lutheran students from Towson University, Baltimore; Muhlenberg College, Allentown; Centenary College, Hackettstown; Kutztown University, Kutztown; the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Mt. Airy; and Drexel University and the University of Pennsylvania, University City.

Calvary thanks them, UCHS and the University City District for making the arrangements for this “Gift to the Streets” from the Calvary Center and hopes that they will be coming back next year for another service day in the neighborhood.

HISTORIC PAVING IN DANGER

From the Preservation Alliance’s list of the city’s Endangered Properties in 2004: “SEPTA reports that the trolley rails on the 4500 and 4600 blocks of Chester Avenue will need to be replaced within the next year. Due to financial constraints, liability issues, and time, SEPTA does not expect to reset the historic Belgian blocks after new rails are installed even though the street is part of Philadelphia’s Historic Streets District. This historic streetscape continues to be threatened with demolition.”

If SEPTA’s failure to recognize the jurisdiction of the Philadelphia Historical Commission in recognizing and protecting the historic significance in these two blocks of streetcar track, all the other blocks on Chester Avenue, along with those on 40th Street and the red brick pavers on 49th Street are also in immediate jeopardy. All of these street pavings are part of the thematic district along with other blocks throughout the city.

The Preservation Alliance’s new Advocacy Associate, Liz Blazeovich, has been keeping us and a group of members and concerned neighbors from those blocks on Chester Avenue abreast of the latest developments, in particular, a potentially precedent-setting case where PennDOT brought a repaving plan for the 4200 and 4300 blocks of Germantown Avenue to the Historical Commission, at which time the Commission denied approval pending further review. The proposed plans presented repaving the entire street bed, keeping the historic cobbles in the cart way, but eliminating that paving adjacent to the trolley tracks. Members of the Chestnut Hill Historical Society and Pelham neighbors will be presenting alternative plans, which they have researched extensively.

UCHS will continue to work with local preservationists who developed the nomination to this Endangered Properties list and with the Alliance to save these essential complements to the West Philadelphia Streetcar Suburb Historic District and the proposed University City Historic Streetcar Loop. If you would like to become an active part of this effort, contact Liz Blazeovich at (215)546-1146 x.4 or liz@preservationalliance.com

2005/ HOUSE TOURS /2006

UCHS last year mounted two very successful house tours in the area, with major help from UCHS’ Karen Allen and Melani Lamond for a May tour in conjunction with the Friends of Independence Hall’s Philadelphia Open House program. This displayed the streetscapes from reconstructed historic trolleys funded by the University City District running in a “loop” stretching from 38th to 49th Streets and the major avenues between, where 20 sites and interiors could be visited. Over 200 tour tickets were sold, many at a special discount to UCHS members ordering them by advance sale through the society.

Melani Lamond returned later in the year to spearhead a Fall Restoration/Renewal-in-Progress tour where nine buildings undergoing renewal/restoration could be visited followed by a post-tour party at Abbraccio that offered everyone the chance to have refreshments, view a slide show of the interiors put together by Brian Ratigan, and exchange information about local contractors/craftspeople doing the jobs. Over 75 people took advantage of this opportunity to see the process up-close and personal and quiz the owners. Again, UCHS members enjoyed special discounted tickets.

UCHS would like to thank all of those who contributed to these historic house openings. Date plaques or posters and UCHS memberships have been given to the owners, but for all who help make these public events possible, our sincere thanks.

Expect to see another UCHS tour take place in June, 2006, this time in Powelton Village, under the auspices of POH in collaboration with the Powelton Village Civic Association. More information and discount ticket information for members will be available closer to the event, but remind your friends and neighbors about this additional benefit to being a UCHS member.

PRESERVATION ALLIANCE

UCHS and West Philadelphia are pleased and honored to be the special recipient of some programs made possible by a major grant from the William Penn Foundation to greatly enhance the capacity of the Preservation Alliance of Greater Philadelphia to provide programs and services to Philadelphia's historic neighborhoods. Initiated only recently, the Alliance's Neighborhood Preservation Program has already invited UCHS and other West Philadelphia community organizations to join a new city-wide Historic Districts Council, made up of neighborhoods from local and national register residential historic districts, as well as neighborhoods that are in the process of local designation or have demonstrated interest in designation.

In the story below regarding the effort to save the historic street pavings of University City, you will hear of some of the efforts of the Alliance's new Advocacy Associate working to benefit Philadelphia's neighborhood preservation efforts and on page 4 you will find the announcement of an Historic Properties Repair Program offering grants to eligible historically certified properties in the city. Among these are residences in National Register Historic Districts, of which some three quarters of the homes in University City are included. More information about this program will be included in a brochure that UCHS members will be receiving from the Alliance.

Please help us spread the news of these programs to other individuals in the area. They offer special opportunities that need to have maximum publicity.

Information about other of these neighborhood initiatives will become available in the future, but expect to see in April, 2006, the resumption of a program of Homeowner Workshops, patterned on the former PRIMER program developed and offered through the University City District and UCHS.

Under the auspices of the Preservation Alliance, a new version of PRIMER will be reborn as a series of free Homeowner Workshops. For four Thursdays, at 7 p.m., at the Calvary Center for Culture and Community, city residents, particularly those in West Philadelphia, will be able to attend workshops to learn from historic preservation professionals, including architects, contractors, craftspeople, and consultants, about the best practices for the restoration and maintenance of their historic homes.

These will include: Working with Architects and Contractors: Planning Ahead (April 6); Roofing on Historic Buildings (April 13); Historic Windows: Maintenance, Repair and Replacement (April 20); and Masonry and Pointing (April 27). These same programs will be repeated on Wednesdays in April at Cliveden, 6401 Germantown Avenue, in Germantown, the second focus of the Alliance's programs attention.

While there will be more information available to the public later about these workshops, you are receiving the first word. These workshops are free and open to the public, but seating is limited. If you plan to attend, or if you have any questions, please contact Patrick Hauck, Director of Neighborhood Preservation Programs, at (215)546-1146 x.4 or patrick@preservationalliance.com to reserve a space today.

Need to Repair Your Historic Home?

Then the Philadelphia
Historic Properties Repair Program
 may be able to help you!

Historic houses are an integral part of Philadelphia's unique neighborhoods. From the early "trinities" of North-ern Liberties to the Victorians in Germantown's Tulpehocken neighborhood, from the Italianate rowhouses of Fairmount to the bungalow twins of Girard Estates, all contribute to the appeal and livability of the city's many communities. Yet maintaining and repairing older houses is sometimes a financial burden on homeowners, especially for those with moderate and low incomes.

The Historic Properties Repair Program (HPRP) is a city-funded initiative that is administered by the Pres-ervation Alliance for Greater Philadelphia. HPRP assists low- and moderate-income homeowners with grants for exterior repairs to their homes so that the historic character of their neighborhoods can be maintained.

What properties are eligible? Only owner-occupied residences located in a City of Philadelphia or Na-tional Register historic district or residences individually designated as historic. Commercial properties and properties with more than three rental units are not eligible.

What can HPRP grants be used for? Exterior repairs and restoration work to residential properties. Examples are porch repairs, painting, masonry re-pointing, carpentry restoration, roofing, or window repairs or replacement. Interior work is not eligible.

How much are the grants? The grant amount is equal to the cost difference between doing basic (non-historic) repairs and doing authentic restoration work. For example: replacing porch posts with modern ironwork costs $1,000; replacement with historic wood columns costs $2,500; a HPRP grant would pay the difference or $1,500, and the homeowner pays the base amount, or $1,000. The maximum grant is $20,000 and minimum is $1,500.

Who does the repair work? HPRP maintains a list from which the homeowner can choose a pre-qualified contractor with restoration experience. Contractors not on the current list may also meet the program's qualifica-tions.

Who is eligible for a grant? To be eligible for a repair grant, your total family annual income must be less than the income levels shown below, as determined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Develop-ment:

Number of persons in your household:	1 person	2 persons	3 persons	4 persons	5 persons	6 persons	7 persons	8 persons
income $:	38,550	44,050	49,550	55,050	59,450	63,850	68,250	72,650

Are there other programs available to help with the cost of basic repairs? At <http://www.philaloan.com/>, you will find information on a city program that offers low-interest (3%) loans of up to $25,000 to resident property owners who meet the income requirements.

GARDEN DESIGN HELP

Is available to homeowners and others interested in landscaping their properties in University City and continuing the green heritage that is such an essential part of the area.

On eight Saturdays between 10 and 11 a.m., January 21st to March 11th 2006, a special Landscape Design and Installation Class will be offered at the University City Arts League, 4226 Spruce Street, focused on University City’s special gardening opportunities by a highly respected local landscape designer/garden installer and volunteer.

This 8-week course will provide students the skills needed to design an outdoor space of their choosing. They will bring a drawing and/or photographs of the area to be landscaped to the first class. The course will consider paving, lighting, plant selection and more. Students will leave with both a design and the knowledge of how to implement it.

With a MLA from the University of Pennsylvania, landscape designer and instructor Stephen McCoubrey has worked on both the design and installation of several residential, institutional, and commercial projects in University City. They have included horticultural therapy, medicinal plant, and storm water management gardens. He is a consultant/designer for UC Green, University City's volunteer community greening organization and for Spruce Hill Community Association's block improvement grant program. UCAL Members will be charged $90; Non-Members $105. Please call UCAL at (215) 382-7811 or see www.ucartsleague.org to enroll.

Following the course, a free community public spaces design workshop will be offered by UCAL to permit interested volunteers to offer their design and plant selections for some Baltimore Avenue triangles scheduled to be redeveloped and greened by the University City District and UC Green in the future.

AND SPECIAL THANKS TO those who recently renewed their UCHS membership and made additional contributions as Sustainers of UCHS: David Adelman, Campus Apartments; Mike Hardy & Barry Grossbach; Arlene & Don Matzkin; Beth & Nelson Wicas; and as Friends of UCHS: David Othmer & Maureen Barden; Nancy Brisbon; Joan Halbert & Paul Brooks; Carolyn Burdon; Bob & Elizabeth Eilers; James M. Fennell; Robert & Geraldine Giuntoli; Joanne & Leon Kellerman; Suzanne & Jack Minnis
